"The only 'mourning' paper in Council Bluffs" again calls for troops to drive The Bee out of town because it stated that Frank Shinn addressed the old settlers before dinner, instead of after dinner. The Bee seems worry the old lady almost as much as "Infant Mortality and Impure Milk." To her mind these are the two leading issues

now before the people. The ingenuity of fellows who are locked up with nothing to do but to plan ways of get ting out is sometimes remarkable. Jaile Peterson discovered John Cover, who is charged with burglary, and Johnson, the negro, who shot a jockey at the driving park last June, at work on a steel shank taken from a shoe. They were making quite a respectable saw out of it when their work was interrupted. Judge McGee yesterday annuled the order binding Leo Wainright over to the grand jury, for the reason that there apepared on the docket no record of any information charging him with a crime. J. R. McPher-son was unwilling to prosecute, and Officer Slead, who made the arrest, signed the information charging him with forgery, and the aristocratic Leo was consigned to the tender mercies of the grand jury.

P. M. Stokesberry, whose heroic rescue mother and child from being crushed by an engine at Creston was narrated in yes-terday's Bee, is the same Stokesberry who was shot by tramps on a train near this city some months ago. Stokesberry was so injured by his encounter with the tramps that he will never be able to resume his duties as brakeman, and the company has given him a position as flagman at Creston. It was while serving in this capacity that he risked his life again for the sake of

The early morning trains brought many visitors to Council Bluffs yesterday to witness the races. A particular friend called upon Mr. C. B. Randlett for the purpose of renewing old acquaintances, and while Mr Randlett was busily engaged with other work the ever welcome guest walked out. Mr. Randlett immediately missed a ring valued at $25 that was lying near by, and, rushing out into the street, hailed the young man and apprised him of the fact and coused him of the peculation. He emphatically de-nied knowing anything about the ring what-ever, but finally handed it over to Mr. Randlett after receiving a promise not to be

POPULISTS MAKE NOMINATIONS, | County Ticket Named After a Day's Hard Work.

The Pottawattamie county populists met in the time. The greatest number of delegates voting on any one ballot was 105. The repreentation allotted each township would have given a large convention if all parts of the half of the townships sent delegates, the derelict ones being the heavy populist preincts of the county.

The convention was called to order by the ounty chairman at 11 o'clock. J. J. Bolin was chosen temporary chairman and George Hunter temporary secretary.

The committee on permanent organization reported the names of Henry Clark of Garner as permanent chairman, and T. F. Callighan and George Hunter as secretaries. An effort was made to prolong the opportunity for speech making by forcing through a reson to the effect that an informal ballot be taken for every candidate. This was set down on hard, and then the convention pro-ceeded to the selection of a candidate for state senator. The names of A. M. Hutchin-William Phillips, T. H. Grennan, N. H. Bollin and N. H. Bauman were presented Bauman was declared the nomin auman was declared the nominee, and the hoice was made unanimous. Candidates for the two places in the lower house of the state legislature were next selected, Eugene Stupefel and James Flood, jr., being named. The committee on resolutions was ready to some time before this point was reached, as follows:

We, the delegates of the people's party of Pottawattamic county, in convention assembled, declare: That we endorse the national and state platforms of the people's party adopted at Omaha and Des Moines respectively; that we are unalterably opposed to the issuance of interest hearing bonds, or granting of public franchises or aid to any individual or corporation; that aill public utilities should be owned and operated by the public for the common benefit and convenience of ail; that we favor the purchase of a county poor farm and the erection of necessary buildings thereon at a cost of not to exceed $40,000, the same to be paid by a direct tax of I mill after three years, which will amount to about $40,000, and demand that the same be submitted to the voters of this county at the next general election; that we favor a law that will make unlawful any bond, note or morigage or other obligation payable in any one kind of money only, and declare that all debts, public and private, should be made payable in any lawful money of the United States, at the option of the debtor; that the candidates nominated by this convention are but the instruments chosen to further the above principles, and the acceptance of a nomination at our hands is the solemn piedge and contract to be faithful to the trust imposed, subject to the supreme mandate; we are in favor of a law that will remedy the inequalities of taxation that now exist, so that property owners shall pay taxes only on what they own and not on what they owe.

The resolutions were adopted without dissent and the nominations proceeded with. We, the delegates of the people's party of

A little diversion was created when John E. Ahles named "Honest John Stuhr of Minden" as a candidate for sheriff. Some one wanted to know who "Honest John" was, and intimated that there had been too many honest Johns nominated by populist conventions, who afterward proved to be dishonest Jacks, or at least not honest pops. The discovery was finally made that John was at the preent time holding the position of deputy sher iff at Avoca, and was a hot democrat. That was enough, and the two Johns got a warm reast from the convention. D. D. Glistrap of Norwalk was named, and after Ed Ward of Keg Creek had declared that the demo cratic party was the last party on earth to ask the endorsement of the populists for meanest office, and that a democrat holding an office and daring to come into the popu-list convention should be kicked out figuratively and physically, the delegates turned to Dr. J. J. B. Hood was nominated county surveyor by acclamation upon the representation that he was a good old soldier. A little trouble was caused by the charge that he was a good rebel soldier, but a dozen delegates shouted, "That makes no difference. The war's over. He's all right if he's a good

The concluding business of the convention was the selection of the county and city central committees, one from each town-ship and ward. E. J. Orr was chosen chairman of the county committee and George McPeak of the city central organization. When this work was completed it almost 7 o'clock and nearly all of the delegates had left the hall. There were a num-ber of them, however, who were struggling with unspoken orations, and to accommodate them the convention was continued, with all rules relaxed, and all given a chance to talk. Ed Ward made the hettest and most significant speech. He cor gratulated the convention upon the selection of a ticket composed of populists and nothing but populists. As a parting admonition he cried: "Don't associate, negotiate or fellowship with either democrats or republicans. Both are com-mon enemies and we will down both of

TRIALS OF THE SCHOOL BOARDS. No Rest for the Weary Member Who Tries to Please the Public.

"Yes, it's just fun to be a school director," convention nearly all day yesterday, and Lib- facetiously remarked one of the members of erty hall was more or less crowded during the school board. "I like it, I do. There's no salary connected with the office, but there's plenty of time in it, and time's money, you know."

The listener protested, on the ground that ounty had been represented, but less than a newspaper fellow never has any time, and so didn't know anything about it.

"Really," continues the school man, "you ought to have been down to my house this morning, for instance. Why, they can't wait for a fellow to even eat his breakfast. Two young ladies were ringing the bell before I was up, and they waited in the parlor for me to dress. Then they look turns keeping my breakfast waiting. They wanted to teach, of course. I had to listen to their whole family history, and I guess I'd have been listening yet if my good wife hadn't, with apparent innocence, stepped into the hall and shouled upstairs, as though she didn't know I had come down, 'Aren't you going to get up? Breakfast is getting cold.' The maiden appli-cants, of course, heard it, and magnanimously out their stories short.

But that isn't a patch. The other day an indignant mother was among those swarm into my office to see me on swarm into my office to see me on school matters. Her boy had told the teacher she lied, and he couldn't get back into school this fall unless he apologized. The mother insisted that the boy was right. The teacher had lied. I asked her how she knew, and found out that the boy had told her so, and had fied. I asked her how she knew, and found out that the boy had told her so, and her boy and George Washington never told lies, though everybody else did whom she had ever heard of. I told her as suavely as could that in this particular case I know that the boy was mistaken, and that anyway e ought not to have used such ungentlenanly language to a lady. Then she exploded. I want you to understand, sir, that my boy is a free-born American citizen, and that he has the blood of his forefathers, who signed the Declaration of Independence, elped sign it, and that he will never apologize, sir, no, never, sir,' and so she went on shaking her fist and screeching her solo until she drove me clear into one corner of the

"But that ain't the worst of it. There's the board meetings. They're getting so dan-gerous that my accident policy was cancelled the other day. We used to keep you newspaper fellows from gettin onto our rows, because we would hold secret caucuses and fix up our quarrels before the public meeting was held, but you kept pounding away about tar chamber proceedings, and so we had to squabble in public. Letter Writers in Trouble. Mary Finley and Mary Ross, two young women of Corning, Ia., were brought up yesterday morning and arraigned before Commissioner Steadman to answer to the charge of using the mails for the transmission of obscene and profane communications. The girls are domestics and became involved in a violent quarrel with another girl over the attentions of a young man. He had trans-ferred his affections from Miss Finley to another girl and Mary sought a poor revenge. She procured the assistance of Miss Ross and dictated a most vile letter, which was sent to the offending woman. This woman showed it to the recreant lover and he turned it over to the postoffice author-ities, and the arrest of the two Marys fol-lowed quickly. Both were penitent, admitted their guilt, waived examination and were bound over to await the action of the federal grand jury. Bonds were furnished and the two girls returned home on the fternoon train.

GIGANTIC RAILROAD PASS SWINDLE. Clever Scheme Worked Successfully for a Time-Forgers Arrested.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 31.-Barrett & Wenner, doing business as railway ticket calpers at 734 Canal street, and a number of persons associated with them at other points, were arrested today for issuing fraudulent railroad passes. The Southern Pacific estimates that it has been fleeced out of about $50,000 in fares, and has had detectives at work since May. In addition to these, W. R. Fagan, a passenger agent, gave valuable assistance by becoming a conductor and estensibly falling into the schemes of and estensibly falling into the schemes of the combine, carrying out their orders and seeing through the passengers with forged passes. Letters addressed to him, although unsigned, formed the basis of the charges of fraudulent use of the mails, upon which the arrests were made. The scheme is said to have been gigantic and well worked and the passes could hardly be distinguished from genuine passes. The firm is said to have agents in all principal cities along the line, and when a passenger desired to purchase a and when a passenger desired to purchase a ticket he was furnished with a pass for a point beyond his destination and received a good rebate for turning over the ticket to his agent at his landing place. In that way the company never saw the tickets, which were destroyed by the agents, and it was difficult to trace the fraud. The decoy system was then attempted, and worked with the success altempted, and worked with the success al-ready stated. After it was determined to make the arrests the different parties, thousands of miles apart, were all landed in Jall within four hours. Barrett was arrested here and Wenner at Covington, La. Other arrests were made at New York, Houston

President of the Confederacy Appointed Him Secretary of the Interior, Which He Refused to Accept.

MALVERN, Ia., Aug. 31.-(Special.)-The

late Rev. M. U. Payne, the famous Fremont county millionaire who died a few days ago was a most interesting and original character. He was a lifelong friend of Jefferson Davis, and when the latter was elected president of the southern confederacy he appointed Payne secretary of the interior, but he never served in that capacity. On the contrary, he came north and settled in Fremont county, where he has since amassed a fortune variously estimated at from $1, Call 000,000 to $3,000,000. He owned land in every state in the union except one, though the most of his real estate was in Fremont county, where he had 16,000 acres. When Jeff Davis died he owed Mr. Payne $100,000, which he had forgotten to pay. When Davis died Payne was called to his home in Mississippi to preach his funeral sermon. Payne's will, just filed for probate, shown his money bequests to be $228,000 aside from his real estate. Besides making liberal provisions for his widow, children, relatives ar servants, he bequeathed to Charles S. Hanley of the Firebrand, Shenandoah, and his school $5,000; Methodist Episcopal church, loan fund board of church extension, $20,000 Methodist Episcopal church, South, on th home place, thirty acres, so long as used for church purposes; Central college, Mo., endowment fund, $10,000; Park Parkville, Mo., scholarship fund, $19,000 Tabor college, Tabor, Ia., endowment fund $10,000; to the needy widows and orphans under 12 years and spinsters over 40 years. and all preachers now living upon any lands n Fremont county owned by said testator, o who may hereafter live upon any of said premises during the ownership of his heirs

ing brightly and the "pot" will be kept boil ng until after election. Mills county is nom nally republican by a majority of about 300 on the state ticket, and they generally majority on the county ticket. The demo crats seem to have had a "cinch" on the sheriff's office, as they have held it continnously for twenty years. This year the re-publicans are determined to wrest even that ffice from the democrats. The calls are now ut for three conventions—the populists today republican September 20, and democrati eptember 19. The leading candidates for the epublican nominations are: Representative L. Heinsheimer and Judge W. S. Lewis of Glenwood, John Parker, Ingraham township, C. W. Black of Malvern, and W. M. Coats of Hillsdale; sheriff, W. L. Tubbs, Em-erson, and M. O. Hanks, Silver City; treasurer, A. D. French, present incumbent, and A Utterback of Rawles township; superintend ent of schools, Erof. E. H. Hamilton. Malvern seems to be in the lead. Mr. Pitser Silver City, and A. B. Adams, Malvern, are also aspirants for the office. There is very little talk on the part of the democrats, except that Deputy Sheriff J. L. BIG FIRE RAGING IN BUFFALO. Academy of Music Building Destroyed and the Flames Spreading.

BUFFALO, Sept. 1 .- Fire broke out in the Academy of Music at 1:30 a. m. and the building was almost entirely destroyed. At 2:20 a. m. a second alarm was turned in, but before the engines could lay hose the flames burst through the stage vindows in the rear, showing that the interior was burning fiercely. The Academy of Music was the oldest play house in Buffalo and one of the historic theaters of America. It had en managed for a quarter of a century by the Meed brothers, and every actor of re-nown has played within its walls at some time or other. The theater building and property were valued at $25,000, including the land. The structure was four stories Homme county line. Their richest hauls are made from farmers who do their banking in hen coops, hay mows and cellars. One which had accumulated during the past twenty years. The loss will be difficult to

Majority of the Supreme Court De-cides This Vital Question. SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 31 .- The suprem ourt has decided that women cannot vote at the coming election in November. This reverses the recent decision made by Judge Smith at Ogden. The cases came up on appeal in the suit of Sarah E. Anderson agai Charles Tyro, registration officer at Ogden. Mont., in the summer and in Omaha in the nvolving the question of women voting. Chief Justice Merritt rendered the decision today. He said that Judge Bartch and him-self had arrived at a conclusion, Judge King lissenting. Mrs. Anderson had asked that he be placed on the registration lists. Judge Merritt said that the Edmunds-Tucker law was not repealed and would remain effective until statehood was achieved. Section 2 of the enabling act had extended the franchise among males, but had not referred to females. To allow females to vote would be in conflict with the act and was forbidden. Stress had been laid upon the fourth section of the enabling act, where the "qualified voters of the state were authorized to vote." qualified under existing laws and the enabling act. There had been no intention on the part of the constitutional convention to allow women to vote at the first election in No-
